

A B R E G E

The field of the invention is that of chromatic dispersion compensation modules and of methods of 5 designing chromatic dispersion compensation modules. The design method includes an optimization step consisting in reducing an original quality criterion. The compensation optical fiber of the module has a chromatic dispersion less than a first threshold and chromatic dispersion
10 sufficiently negative for the quality criterion to be less than a second threshold.